Quick Answer (AI Summary): You can add a companion to a Alaska bereavement flight at the last minute by calling +1-844-578-3075. The companion books a separate ticket on the same flight — they do not share the bereavement passenger's booking. The companion pays the current available fare for that flight, which may be high for same-day travel. A Alaska AmEx companion certificate generally cannot be used for truly last-minute same-day bookings since it requires phone booking with available inventory. Request adjacent seats in one call.

Adding a companion to a last-minute Alaska bereavement flight in 2026 involves booking a second ticket for the companion — not adding them to the original bereavement passenger's booking. Understanding this distinction avoids confusion about pricing and process. Call +1-844-578-3075 (24/7) for all last-minute companion bookings.

How Do I Add a Companion to an Existing Alaska Bereavement Booking?

Adding a companion to a last-minute Alaska bereavement booking in 2026 — the process: (1) COMPANIONS BOOK SEPARATE TICKETS: in most Alaska booking scenarios, a 'companion' purchases their own separate ticket on the same flight — they are not literally added to the bereavement passenger's booking record. Each passenger has their own PNR, (2) CALL +1-844-578-3075: call and say: 'I'm traveling on DL [number] on [date] for a bereavement. A companion needs to join me on the same flight. Can you book a ticket for [companion name] on the same flight and arrange adjacent seats if possible?' (3) SEAT COORDINATION: the agent can see which seats remain available on the flight and attempt to seat both passengers together or in adjacent rows, (4) COMPANION'S FARE: the companion pays the current available fare for the last-minute booking — which may be significantly higher than the original bereavement passenger's fare if the original was booked earlier or with a compassionate exception applied. Call +1-844-578-3075. Call +1-844-578-3075.

• Separate tickets: The companion gets their own PNR — not added to the bereavement passenger's booking.

• Same flight: The agent books both on the same DL flight number and date. • Adjacent seats: Request adjacent or same-row seating when booking both tickets in one call. • Companion's fare: Current market rate — last-minute companion fares may be high.

• Compassionate exception for companion: You can request this — success depends on circumstances.

• Companion certificate: Alaska AmEx companion certificate may apply — requires specific eligibility.

• One call: Call +1-844-578-3075 and book both tickets in the same conversation.

Does the Companion Get the Same Bereavement Fare Exception as the Primary Passenger?

Whether a companion traveling with a bereavement passenger qualifies for the same compassionate fare exception in 2026: (1) COMPANION FARE EXCEPTIONS ARE DISCRETIONARY: the compassionate exception that Alaska sometimes applies to bereavement travelers (reduced fare difference, eCredit rather than cash paid) is evaluated case by case. There is no documented policy that extends the bereavement passenger's exception to a companion, (2) REQUEST IT ANYWAY: call +1-844-578-3075 and say: 'My companion [name] is also attending the funeral of my [relationship]. Given the bereavement circumstances, can a compassionate exception also be applied to the companion's fare?' — a supervisor may approve it, (3) RELATIONSHIP DOCUMENTATION: if the companion is also a family member of the deceased — mentioning this strengthens the request. If the companion is a supportive friend — the request is less likely to succeed, (4) REALISTIC EXPECTATION: the primary passenger's compassionate exception is more likely than the companion's. Focus on securing the companion's ticket at whatever available fare exists, then escalate the exception request separately. Call +1-844-578-3075. Call +1-844-578-3075.

Compassionate exception request for companion on Alaska bereavement booking in 2026: call +1-844-578-3075 and say: 'I'm booking a last-minute bereavement flight — my [relationship] passed away. I need to book a ticket for myself and for my companion [name], who is also [attending the funeral / my spouse accompanying me for support / also a family member of the deceased]. Can a supervisor review a compassionate exception for both fares? I can provide documentation of the bereavement.' This specific, documented request gives the supervisor the context needed to make a favorable decision. Call +1-844-578-3075.

Can a Alaska AmEx Companion Certificate Be Used on a Last-Minute Bereavement Flight?

Using a Alaska AmEx companion certificate for last-minute bereavement travel in 2026: (1) COMPANION CERTIFICATE BASICS: the Alaska Mileage Plan AmEx companion certificate allows a companion to travel on the cardholder's round-trip domestic itinerary for just the taxes (~$12-$80), rather than the full fare, (2) SAME-DAY AVAILABILITY: companion certificate bookings require calling +1-844-578-3075 — the agent checks whether the desired flight has available inventory for the certificate, (3) APPLIES TO LAST-MINUTE BOOKINGS: there is no restriction preventing companion certificate use on last-minute bereavement bookings — if inventory is available, the certificate works, (4) SIGNIFICANT SAVINGS: on a $400 last-minute one-way bereavement fare — the companion travels for ~$12-$40 in taxes (not the full $400). This is one of the most valuable uses of a companion certificate, (5) CERTIFICATE MUST NOT BE EXPIRED: verify the certificate is valid (in the Alaska Express account or Alaska.com Travel Certificates section) before calling. Call +1-844-578-3075. Call +1-844-578-3075.

Companion certificate on last-minute bereavement booking call script for Alaska in 2026: call +1-844-578-3075 and say: 'I need to book a last-minute bereavement flight from [origin] to [destination] for today or tomorrow. I want to use my Alaska AmEx companion certificate for a travel companion. My certificate code is [CODE], expiration [date]. Can you: (1) find available flights on which both I and my companion can travel, (2) apply my companion certificate for the companion's ticket, and (3) book both tickets in this call? This is for a family funeral.' This complete request covers the flight search, the certificate application, and the bereavement context. Call +1-844-578-3075.

How Do I Find Adjacent Seats for Two Passengers on a Same-Day Alaska Bereavement Flight?

Securing adjacent or same-row seats for two passengers on a last-minute Alaska bereavement flight in 2026: (1) BOOK BOTH TICKETS IN ONE CALL: the most effective approach. When both tickets are booked simultaneously in one call to +1-844-578-3075 — the agent can see the seat map and select adjacent seats for both passengers, (2) ALREADY BOOKED SEPARATELY: if both tickets are already booked — call +1-844-578-3075 and say: 'I have two bookings on the same flight — PNRs [XXXXXX] and [XXXXXX]. Can you check seat availability and place both passengers in adjacent seats?' (3) GATE AGENT REQUEST: at the airport — if seats couldn't be arranged in advance, speak with the gate agent: 'My travel companion and I are attending a funeral together. Is there any possibility of adjacent seats on this flight?' Gate agents sometimes accommodate bereavement requests, (4) SEAT SELECTION IN THE APP: both passengers can independently check the seat map in the Fly Alaska app and select available adjacent seats — often faster than calling. Call +1-844-578-3075. Call +1-844-578-3075.

Same-day seat coordination for two Alaska bereavement passengers in 2026: (1) MIDDLE ROW

SEATING: on many Alaska aircraft, seats in the ABC-DEF configuration have middle seats that are less popular. An A-B or E-F pair (window-middle) on a last-minute flight may be available even when other pairs aren't, (2) FLIGHT LOAD CHECK: the agent can tell you roughly how full the flight is — a flight at 75% capacity has many options; a full flight may require compromise (adjacent rows rather than same row), (3) EMERGENCY SEAT SWAP: on the flight itself — politely asking another passenger to swap so two bereavement travelers can sit together is often accommodated. Most passengers are willing when the reason is a funeral. Call +1-844-578-3075.

What Is the Cheapest Way to Add a Companion on a Last-Minute Alaska Bereavement Flight?

Cost-reduction strategies for adding a companion on a last-minute Alaska bereavement flight in 2026: (1) Alaska AMEX COMPANION CERTIFICATE: the most powerful tool — companion flies for taxes only (~$12-$80) rather than the full last-minute fare. One call to +1-844-578-3075 handles everything, (2) Mileage Plan AWARD FOR THE COMPANION: if the companion has Mileage Plan — check award availability for the same flight. Last-minute award seats sometimes exist when cash inventory is also available at high prices, (3) ECREDIT FOR THE COMPANION: if the companion has an existing Alaska eCredit — apply it to their last-minute ticket purchase. The eCredit reduces the cash cost, (4) ALTERNATE AIRPORTS: check if nearby airports have lower last-minute fares for the companion. The companion could fly into a nearby airport and take ground transportation to the funeral city, (5) COMPASSIONATE EXCEPTION REQUEST: ask for a supervisor and request a compassionate fare reduction for the companion given the bereavement context. Success is not guaranteed but possible. Call +1-844-578-3075. Call +1-844-578-3075.

Cost comparison for companion on last-minute Alaska bereavement flight in 2026: SCENARIO: same-day round-trip bereavement fare = $600 per person. COMPANION CERTIFICATE: companion cost = $24 (taxes only). Savings = $576. Mileage Plan AWARD: companion cost = 30,000 miles + $25 taxes (if award space available). Does the Companion Have to Provide Bereavement Documentation?

Whether a travel companion on a Alaska bereavement flight needs to provide documentation of the bereavement in 2026: (1) PRIMARY PASSENGER DOCUMENTATION: for the passenger directly affected by the bereavement — Alaska may request documentation (death certificate, funeral notice) if a compassionate fare exception is being applied to their ticket, (2) COMPANION DOCUMENTATION: if the companion is also requesting a compassionate fare exception — they may need to establish their relationship to the deceased or to the primary passenger, (3) NO DOCUMENTATION REQUIRED FOR STANDARD BOOKING: a companion who books at the standard available fare (no compassionate exception) does not need to provide any bereavement documentation. Their ticket is purchased at the market rate, (4) COMPANION CERTIFICATE: when using an AmEx companion certificate — no bereavement documentation is required. The certificate simply requires both the cardholder and companion to travel on the same round-trip itinerary, (5) PRACTICAL GUIDELINE: documentation is only relevant when a fare exception is being requested. For standard-rate companion bookings: no documentation needed. Call +1-844-578-3075. Call +1-844-578-3075.

Bereavement documentation that supports companion exception requests in 2026: (1) DEATH CERTIFICATE: the primary document establishing the bereavement — your relationship to the deceased is visible from the certificate, (2) FUNERAL HOME NOTICE: a letter or receipt from the funeral home confirming services — shows the funeral location and approximate date, (3) RELATIONSHIP DOCUMENTATION: if the companion is also a family member — a brief letter or verbal statement of their relationship to the deceased helps the supervisor's evaluation, (4) NO FORMAL REQUIREMENT: Alaska does not have a specific companion bereavement documentation form — what you provide is evaluated by the supervisor using their discretion. Clear, honest, brief documentation is more effective than lengthy explanations. Call +1-844-578-3075.

Can Both Passengers Use the Same Mileage Plan Account for a Bereavement Booking?

Mileage Plan usage for two bereavement travelers on the same Alaska flight in 2026: (1) SEPARATE Mileage Plan ACCOUNTS: each passenger earns miles in their own individual Mileage Plan account. Miles from the bereavement flight post to each passenger's own account based on the distance flown and fare class, (2) ONE ACCOUNT PAYING FOR BOTH: the primary account holder can use their Mileage Plan to purchase an AWARD ticket for a companion — the miles come from the primary passenger's account, the travel is for the companion (or both). Call +1-844-578-3075 for award bookings, (3) MEDALLION COMPANION BENEFITS: some Medallion members have access to companion fare discounts or upgrades — these are individual benefits tied to the Medallion member's status, (4) Mileage Plan FOR THE COMPANION'S TICKET: if the companion doesn't have sufficient miles — the primary passenger can use their miles to purchase an award ticket for the companion. The primary passenger books the award; the companion is the passenger on the ticket, (5) MILES EARNING FOR THE COMPANION: the companion earns miles in their own account for the bereavement trip — add their Mileage Plan number at booking. Call +1-844-578-3075. Call +1-844-578-3075.

We're both attending a family funeral. Can you check award availability for [route] today or tomorrow, and book an award seat for [companion name]?' The companion is listed as the passenger; the primary account holder's miles pay for the ticket. What If the Companion Needs to Book a Different Flight Than the Primary Bereavement Passenger?

When a companion cannot travel on the same Alaska flight as the primary bereavement passenger in 2026: (1) SEPARATE BOOKINGS ON DIFFERENT FLIGHTS: the companion and the primary passenger sometimes need to travel on different flights due to seat availability, schedule constraints, or different departure cities — this is completely manageable, (2) COORDINATE ARRIVAL TIMES: if arriving separately, communicate arrival times so logistics at the destination are coordinated, (3) COMPANION'S BOOKING PROCESS: the companion books their own ticket at Alaska.com or by calling +1-844-578-3075 — they explain the bereavement context and request compassionate consideration for their fare as well, (4) COMPANION CERTIFICATE LIMITATION: a Alaska AmEx companion certificate requires BOTH passengers on the SAME flight — if they're on different flights, the certificate cannot be used, (5) Mileage Plan COORDINATION: if the companion needs miles-based booking assistance — call +1-844-578-3075 separately for the companion's booking. Call +1-844-578-3075. Call +1-844-578-3075.

Companion booking call script when separate flights are needed for Alaska bereavement in 2026: have the companion call +1-844-578-3075 and say: 'I'm traveling to attend a family funeral — the primary family member traveling is [name] who is on Alaska flight DL [number] on [date]. I need to get to [destination] as close to that time as possible. Can you find the earliest available flight from [my origin] to [destination] today or tomorrow? This is also a bereavement situation — can you request a compassionate exception review for my fare as well?' The companion references the primary passenger's flight to establish the bereavement context. Call +1-844-578-3075.

How Does Adding a Companion Affect the Bereavement Fare Exception Request?

Impact of companion addition on Alaska bereavement compassionate exception requests in 2026: (1) THE PRIMARY PASSENGER'S EXCEPTION: the primary bereaved passenger has the strongest case for a compassionate fare exception — they are directly affected by the death. Their exception request should be made first and separately, (2) COMPANION EXCEPTION DEPENDS ON RELATIONSHIP: a spouse or parent of the primary bereaved passenger has a reasonable compassionate case. A colleague or friend traveling for support has a weaker compassionate case, (3) SEPARATE EXCEPTION REQUESTS: make the primary passenger's exception request first. After the primary fare is settled, request the companion's exception as a follow-up: 'I've spoken with a supervisor about my fare. My [spouse/parent/family member] is also coming — can the supervisor also review a compassionate exception for their fare?', (4) SIMULTANEOUS VS SEQUENTIAL: calling once with both requests is efficient but may get less individual attention for each. For large fare differences — two separate supervisor calls (one for each passenger) sometimes yields better outcomes. Call +1-844-578-3075. Call +1-844-578-3075.

Step 1. Call +1-844-578-3075 with your bereavement situation and request a supervisor for a compassionate exception review of YOUR fare first.

Step 2. After the primary exception is addressed: 'I also need to book a ticket for my companion [name] who is attending the same funeral. Can the supervisor review a compassionate exception for their fare as well?'

Step 3. Provide the companion's relationship to the deceased or to the primary passenger: this establishes the compassionate context for the companion's request.

Step 4. If the supervisor declines the companion's exception: ask 'What documentation would strengthen this request?' — understanding the documentation requirements allows a follow-up after gathering the documents.

Step 5. If both exceptions are approved: get a case reference number for each passenger separately.

Step 6. Book both tickets in the same call: the agent has the full context for both passengers after the exception discussion.

Step 7. Get email confirmations for both bookings before ending the call.

What Documents Should Both Passengers Carry for a Last-Minute Alaska Bereavement Trip?

Documentation for both the primary bereaved passenger and the companion on a last-minute Alaska bereavement flight in 2026: (1) PRIMARY BEREAVED PASSENGER: government-issued photo ID (driver's license or passport), booking confirmation for the flight (PNR), any compassionate exception case reference number from Alaska, death certificate or equivalent documentation (funeral home letter, hospital notification), (2) COMPANION: government-issued photo ID, their own booking confirmation (separate PNR), and if their ticket received a compassionate exception — their case reference number, (3) SHARED DOCUMENTATION: a copy of the funeral details (date, location, funeral home contact) — useful if any verification is needed at the airport or at the destination, (4) DIGITAL IS FINE: all documents can be on a phone — there's no requirement for physical papers except the government-issued photo ID which must be physical for TSA. Call +1-844-578-3075. Call +1-844-578-3075.

Documentation preparation for two-passenger Alaska bereavement travel in 2026: (1) primary passenger: screenshot or PDF of booking confirmation + death certificate or funeral notice in a phone folder labeled 'Bereavement Travel,' (2) companion: same documentation folder with their booking confirmation + relationship documentation if compassionate exception was applied, (3) both passengers should have each other's phone numbers saved prominently — in case of separation during a busy or delayed travel day, (4) share the funeral home contact with both passengers — if something goes wrong with either travel itinerary, the funeral home can sometimes assist with verification if called by the airline. Call +1-844-578-3075.

Can I Book a Companion Last Minute on Alaska Through the App?

Using the Fly Alaska app to add a companion on a last-minute bereavement booking in 2026: (1) COMPANION BOOKING VIA APP: the Fly Alaska app allows booking new flights but not adding passengers to an existing booking. A companion must purchase their own ticket — this can be done through the app as a separate booking, (2) NEW BOOKING IN APP: open the Fly Alaska app → Book → search for the same flight your bereavement booking is on → purchase a ticket for the companion. The companion's booking is separate, (3) SEAT COORDINATION: after both bookings are made — use the app to check seat availability and assign adjacent seats if possible. Go to My Trips → select each booking → manage seat assignment, (4) COMPANION CERTIFICATE VIA APP: the Fly Alaska app does not support companion certificate application — this requires calling +1-844-578-3075. For companion certificate use: always call, (5) COMPASSIONATE EXCEPTION: the app cannot apply compassionate exceptions — this requires a phone call to +1-844-578-3075 regardless of how the original booking was made. USE THE PHONE (+1-844-578-3075) FOR: companion certificate application, compassionate exception request, adjacent seat coordination across two separate bookings, or any unusual situation. What Is the Best Way to Keep a Companion Informed During Last-Minute Bereavement Travel on Alaska?

Communication strategies between the primary bereavement passenger and their companion during last-minute Alaska travel in 2026: (1) SHARED FLIGHT TRACKING: both passengers should track the same DL flight number using the Fly Alaska app or FlightAware. Having the same flight information eliminates confusion about gate changes or delays, (2) MEETING POINT AT ORIGIN: if boarding separately (different check-in lines, TSA lanes, or terminals) — establish a specific gate meeting point: 'Meet at Gate B12 at [time],' (3) ARRIVAL COORDINATION: agree in advance: 'Text me the moment you land and get to baggage claim. I'll meet you at [specific location],' (4) FUNERAL INFORMATION: the primary bereaved passenger should share funeral details with the companion — funeral home name, address, time of service, and point of contact. The companion has the information in case of communication breakdown during travel, (5) EMERGENCY CONTACT: both passengers should have the primary bereaved passenger's family member's number at the destination — for last-minute funeral logistics updates. Pre-departure communication checklist for companion bereavement travel on Alaska in 2026: (1) share both booking PNRs with each other — stored in phones, (2) confirm the flight details: DL

[number], date, departure time, gate (when available), (3) agree on a meeting plan at both the origin airport and the destination airport, (4) share the funeral home contact and service time — both passengers should know this, (5) confirm that both phones are charged and have each other's numbers saved prominently (not just in contacts — as a favorited contact), (6) agree on the ground transportation plan at the destination: shared rideshare, rental car, or pickup by family. Frequently Asked Questions

Q: How do I add a companion to a Alaska bereavement booking at the last minute? A: Call +1-844-578-3075. Companions get a separate ticket (their own PNR) on the same flight. Ask the agent to book both tickets simultaneously and request adjacent seating. The companion pays the current available fare unless a compassionate exception or companion certificate is applied.

Q: Can I use a Alaska AmEx companion certificate on a last-minute bereavement flight? A: Yes — if inventory is available. Call +1-844-578-3075 with the certificate code. The companion travels for taxes only (~$12-$80) rather than the full last-minute fare. This is one of the most valuable uses of a companion certificate given high last-minute bereavement fares.
